Detlef Grauert studied law in Hamburg and, following his first state examination, participated in a six-month trainee program in the legal department of an oil company based in Hamburg. He completed his second state examination after his legal traineeship at the Hanseatic Higher Regional Court in Hamburg.

Detlef Grauerts professional career has been largely shaped by consulting and litigation support for companies involved in plant engineering, with a focus on energy, security, and climate technology, as well as hydraulic steel engineering.

Before joining Leinemann Partner Law Firm's Hamburg office in April 2020, Detlef Grauert worked independently for many years, advising clients in these specialized fields, and he will continue to focus on these areas in his current role.
