Robert Schneider studied law at the University of Münster - going on to complete his legal traineeship at the Regional Court of Münster.

Robert Schneider began his legal career as a lawyer at one of the larger law firms in the Bergisches Land region in July 2000. At this company, which has a long tradition in construction law, he was responsible for handling mandates in the service contract, architecture and private construction law sectors, as well as dealing with matters concerning tenancy law and the German Act on the Ownership of Apartments and the Permanent Residential Right. During this time, he also gained experience in purchasing and selling property.

Robert Schneider has been supporting our office in Düsseldorf since May 2006 where he has been involved in service contract law, private construction and architecture law, real estate and commercial tenancy law matters. For many years, he has also been supporting our clients in the structural engineering law sector - an area of specialization where he has acquired a wealth of knowledge and experience.

Robert Schneider is a specialist in construction and architecture law and member of the Bar Association in Düsseldorf.
